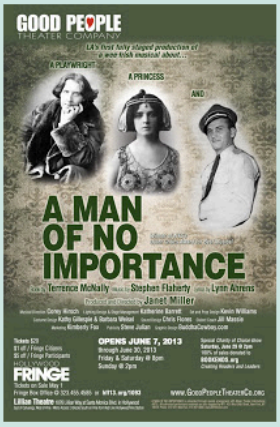
JANET MILLER Launches Good People Theater Company



Producing Artistic Director, Janet Miller, has announced the launch of the Good People Theater Company (GPTC) and its first production, A Man of No Importance, offered as part of the Hollywood Fringe Festival. Direction and musical staging will be done by Miller, who is a Lucille Lortel nominee and multiple LA award-winning director/choreographer, with musical direction by Corey Hirsch, and will feature a 15-member cast. Winner of New York City's Outer Circle Critics Award for Best Musical when it debuted, the show has a book by Terrence McNally, music by Stephen Flaherty and lyrics by Lynn Ahrens. The musical tells the story of Alfie Byrne, a modest, poetical Everyman in 1960s Dublin weighed down by a secret love that, when exposed, tests the boundaries of true friendship and finally mutual tolerance.

A Man of No Importance runs June 7 – 30 at the Lillian Theatre Hollywood (1076 Lillian Way at Santa Monica Blvd. For tickets, call (323) 455-4585 or visit their Fringe Festival project page at www.hff13.org/1093. As a part of the company's commitment to "good people doing good work," the GPTC also announced a special "Charity of Choice" performance on Saturday, June 29 at 2pm. 100% of the ticket proceeds from this performance will be donated to BookEnds, an LA-based non-profit that recycles quality children's reading material to help build library collections at schools and youth centers in underserved areas across Southern California.
